

20 THINGS EVERY CRUISER SHOULD KNOW

BLUE WATER Sailing

October 2006

www.bwsailing.com

Boat Show Preview

Hot New Products for Cruisers

SAIL TO THE SUN

6 Fun Events for Southbound Snowbirds

World Cruisers Take

THE LONG WAY HOME

part II

BWS REVIEWS

THE ROARING 49ERS
Beneteau 49, Hunter 49
and Jeanneau 49

$4.99US $5.99CAN

10>

09281018629

BWS Editor's Choices

Hot New Products for Cruisers

Don't miss a single episode

Home entertainment centers aboard our boats have been expanding as fast as the electronics at the chart table. With the advent of flat-screen TVs that can be mounted on a bulkhead, television afloat is a much more attractive option. But you need to receive the signal. Toward that end Imtra has introduced to the U.S. market a new high-performance Marine Master TV antenna from Glomex, a Europe-based electronics company. The antenna comes in two sizes and offers an excellent antenna solution for sailors since the antenna can be mounted up the mast or as part of a radar arch or tower configuration. A low-cost, high-performance antenna that will keep the TV signal coming even when anchored away from the dock, the Marine Master will make it possible to never miss another episode of Law & Order. For more information log on to www.imtra.com.

Offshore-ready medical kits

OceanMedix.com is a new Internet-based company that prepares medical kits for offshore sailors. They have developed a comprehensive selection of Prescription Medical Kits, Sterile Packs and Prescription Medical Products to meet the needs of the serious recreational boater.

The Prescription Medical Kits come in three sizes: Individual, Cruiser and Voyager with prices ranging from $885 to $2,545. Sterile Packs include an IV Pack and a Suture Pack, priced at $345 and $445. Custom Prescription Medical Kits can be developed to meet the needs of any specialized voyage or adventure. Log on to www.oceanmedix.com for more information.

